The Golden City Free Press says: "The Free Press three months for a dime." Judging from this that paper isn't "free" after all.

Owing to circumstances under which they have no control, the people of this vicinity have practiced unusual economy in the way of vegetables and garden stuff.

Let not the Jaspersians who failed to draw a farm last week take their misfortune too much to heart. If they really desire to go down there they can probably buy a farm in that country at their own price before a year rolls around.

Since the Carthage Democrat has been so successful in stopping the gambling at Joplin, it might see what it could do in the way of stopping that "contagion" between the Lamar newspapers. It would be an untold service to the Barton countryites if it can accomplish that feat.

The Lamar Democrat begins all its editorials these days with the word "Judah." "Judah" is that paper's nom-de-plume for the editor of the Leader who is accused of the terrible crime of not being a Democrat. "Judah" has several columns in his paper to say that he is, and so somebody must be mistaken.

It is believed by government officials that 2,000 of the lucky ones in the drawing for Indian lands will fail to answer to their names or else will be disqualified or throw up their claims as worthless. These failures will pave the way to third and final stage in the opening of the reservations. The 2,000 claims, which it is estimated will not be taken up by their rightful owners, will, at the expiration of sixty days be open to all comers. These can go immediately to their land office and file claims or if they settle upon a homestead in advance of any other person they can remain thereon three months before filling their entry.

Era of the Electric Farmer.

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

Further experiments and tests of Edison's new storage battery appear to leave no doubt in the minds of electricians that he has finally attained the greatest ambition of his later years in the perfection of a device that will be revolutionary in its effects upon the arts and industries of man.

Its possible effects upon street railway traction and other forms of transportation have been widely commented upon. It is easily seen that it will work revolutionary changes in the manufacture of automobiles. In fact, there are electricians who go so far as to predict that it will ultimately displace the present system of fixed tracks, by which street cars are confined to a certain immovable course in particular streets, with electric buses or carriages which may pick their way through smoothly paved highways, regardless of other vehicles, in all quarters of a city.

The Pittsburg Times calls attention to a possible utilization of this new battery, which has not been exploited at length, but which promises to be even more revolutionary than its effect upon traction systems. The Times believes it will bring about "the era of the electric farmer." Says The Times:

The wind engine on the farm may be kept going whenever there is any air, and being coupled to a small dynamo, it will churn out and store power that may be drawn upon at night to light the home or at other times to run any one of the many machines that are necessary to the conduct of farming operations; or it may be used for the heating of the house or the evading of the feed. If there is a small water power near by, it

This may seem like a wild stretch of optimistic fancy, but as a matter of fact there is nothing improbable about it. If electricity can be stored in the manner indicated by Mr. Edison's description of his invention there is no reason why every brook that flows through a meadow may not yield enough electric energy to reap a farmer's grain, bind it, haul it to the barn and thresh it for market. Indeed such a battery as Mr. Edison appears to have devised may be used to haul the grain over good highways to market.

PEPSIN SYRUP CO.

Dear Sir: I feel it my duty to write to you and let you know how much good your medicine has done for me. Twenty three years ago I was taken with some kind of stomach trouble and I tried everything I heard of. They did me but little good. Three years ago neuralgia set in on me and I got so poor and weak that I could hardly walk. I didn't work any. My husband received a book through the mail, advertising your medicine, and he sent our little boy to the drug store to get one of your ten-cent bottles. I began to use it. It is strange to say, but it's the truth, the second dose I took gave me lots of relief. I kept on using it till I used it nearly one year and now I am nearly as strong as I used to be and can do any kind of work. I recommend it to all, for it seems to me it would cure anybody. I have gotten several to use Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and they all say it has done them so much good. God bless Dr. Caldwell and his medicine for doing me so much good.

Yours with respect,
Mrs. ISABEL WHEELER.

Don't be satisfied with temporary relief from indigestion. Kodol Dyspepsia cure permanently and completely removes this complaint. It relieves permanently because it allows the tired stomach perfect rest. Digging won't rest the stomach. Nature receives supplies from the food we eat. The only sensible way to help the stomach is to use Kodol Dyspepsia cure, which digests what you eat and can't help but do you good. E. I. LAUDERBAUGH DRUG CO.

Old Gorgon Graham's Business Philosophy.

Baron Munchausen was the first traveling man, and my drummers' expenses accounts still show his influence.

Adam invented all the different ways in which a young man can make a fool of himself, and the college yell at the end of them is just a frill that doesn't change essentially.

It's the fellow who thinks and acts for himself, and sells short when the prices hit the high C and the house is standing on its hind legs yelling for more, that sits in the directors' meetings when he gets on toward forty.

Pay day is always a month off for the spendthrift, and he is never able to realize more than sixty cents on any dollar that comes to him. But a dollar is worth one hundred and sixty cents to a good business man, and he never spends the dollar.

If you gave some fellows a talent wrapped in a napkin to start with in business, they would swap the talent for a gold brick and lose the napkin; and there are others that you could start out with just a napkin who would set up with it in a dry goods business in a small way and then coax the other fellow's talent into it.

I always lay it down as a safe proposition that the fellow who has to break open the bank for ear fare toward the last of the week isn't going to be any Russell Sage when it comes to trading with the old man's money.

From the letters of a self-made merchant to his son, now appearing in The Saturday Evening Post, of Philadelphia.

A Minister's good work.

I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's colic, cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My wife has been across the street with colic for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so I bought your medicine. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's colic, cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said, 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose. He told me to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was cured. I would like to see the doctor who had treated him."—Wesley's Weekly, Boston.

Editor S. A. Brown, of Emporia, Mo., S. C. was once indignantly surprised. "Through long suffering from dyspepsia," he writes, "my wife was greatly run down. She had no strength or vigor and suffered great distress from her stomach, but she tried Electric Bitters which helped her at once, and after using four bottles, she is entirely well, can eat anything. It's a grand tonic, and its gentle laxative qualities are splendid for torpid liver." For indigestion, loss of appetite, stomach and liver troubles, it's a positive guaranteed cure. Order of Publication.

In the Circuit Court of Jasper County, Missouri, at Carthage, in vacation, July, 22d, 1901. Sarah Margaret Bates, Plaintiff, versus Isaac Bates, Defendant.

Now at this day comes the Plaintiff in the above entitled cause, by attorneys Thomas and Hackney, before the undersigned Clerk of the Circuit Court of Jasper County, Missouri, in vacation, and files her petition and affidavit, stating among other things that the Defendant Isaac Bates, has absconded and absented himself from his usual place of abode in this state so that the ordinary process of law can not be filed upon him. It is therefore ordered by said Clerk, in vacation, that publication be made, notifying the said Defendant that suit has been commenced against him in the Circuit Court of Jasper County, Missouri, at Carthage, the object and general nature of which is to obtain a decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony heretofore contracted, entered and existing by and between the plaintiff and the defendant on the ground of indignities and abandonment, and to have the exclusive care, custody and control of the infant child born of said marriage to wit: "Isaac Herbert" and unless that said Defendant be and appear at the next term of the said Court, to answer and be held at Carthage, in said County, on the first Monday in September, 1901, and answer or demur to the Plaintiff's petition on or before the third day of said term, of the term shall so long continue, and if not, then before the end of the term the same shall be taken as confessed. It is further ordered that a copy hereof be published, at least once a week, for four weeks successively, the last insertion to be made at least fifteen days before the first day of said term, in "The Jasper News," a newspaper published in said county, and designated by the Plaintiff, with the approval of Clerk, as most likely to give notice to said Defendant.
